H. J. Ramer, the well-known cattleman of Canyon creek, Arizona, and Watrous, New Mexico was here for several days in conference with Mr. Goldberg of San Francisco, of the old firm of Miller, Goldberg & Putnam, cattle raisers, who operated in the Pleasant valley section. Mr. Ramer has one of the largest ranges in central Arizona well stocked with cattle. He holds valuable grazing privileges from the government including a lease covering twenty miles square on the White Mountain Indian reservation and also an exclusive privilege on the adjacent forest reserve. Recurrence of the Storm.

A cold wave prevailed here early in the week, the mercury falling to 25 degrees on Monday morning and almost as low on Tuesday. The change in the weather encouraged the belief that it would remain clear for some time and that the railroad company would be able to bring in a large portion of the freight for Globe delayed by the washouts and which was reported scattered along the Southern Pacific from El Paso to Yuma, filling the side tracks and causing the Southern Pacific considerable trouble.

On Wednesday, however, the weather moderated and another rainstorm set in. Last night there was a steady downpour until toward morning, and this afternoon it has rained steadily. The precipitation has amounted to considerably more than an inch, bringing the total for the season, since January 1, up to about 8 1/2 inches. The rain continues tonight.

The G. V. & N. Railroad company has been able to operate its trains today, although the road at several points is not in the best condition. The passenger train which left here this morning reached Bowie at 3:15 p.m., and returning arrived here about 11 o'clock tonight.

Although forecasting the weather in Arizona is a hazardous undertaking, we look for an abatement of the storm tomorrow.

Superintendent Fuller, of the Pinto Creek Mining & Smelting company, brought his wife to town last Friday, quite sick, her ailment being pronounced appendicitis by the attending physician.
